Leadership and Management – Pre-conference Workshop

30 August 2005

9.30am – 4.30pm

As we move from clinician to manager /leader in mental health services, it can't be assumed that we automatically know how to be a leader and how to manage services and personnel. This workshop will be useful both for managers/leaders new to this role and for those who have been in a leadership for some time. The workshop will look at the skills that are needed to be a manager and will use specific scenarios to assist you to identify your own skills, your learning "gaps" and discover alternative operating styles and attitudes. At the end of the workshop you will come away with your own personal leadership learning plan.

Workshop leaders: Tom Callaly, Kay Viola, Lisa Gill, Alan Rosen
